

Sources

---

Note: As stated in the Introduction, the words of Sam Freedman that make up the main text of this book are drawn from a number of disparate sources, including Freedman's own incomplete autobiography and the lengthy interview tapes of Lorne Brandes.

The Brandes interviews, on cassette tapes, were recorded in Winnipeg starting on 2 November 1977, and completed in early 1978.

Other sources include:

Dr L Brandes, "Recollections of Chief Justice Samuel Freedman," interview transcript.

Samuel Freedman, Book Review of The Evolution of the Judicial Process by The Honourable James C McRuer (1957), mimeo, 1957, Winnipeg, Provincial Archives of Manitoba.

Samuel Freedman, "Notes on Capital Punishment," mimeo [nd] in Cameron Harvey's collection.

Samuel Freedman, "The Momentous 20th Century", condensation of an address by Samuel Freedman, The Kiwanis Magazine, August 1957.

Samuel Freedman, "Cyclotron Opening" [nd] in Cameron Harvey's collection.

Samuel Freedman, "What's Right with Canada and Canadians" (1957) speech typescript, Winnipeg, Provincial Archives of Manitoba.

Harry Gutkin with Mildred Gutkin, The Worst of Times, the Best of Times (Markham, Ont: Fitzhenry & Whiteside, 1987).

Cameron Harvey, ed, Chief Justice Samuel Freedman: A Great Canadian Judge (Winnipeg: The Law Society of Manitoba, 1983).

Myron Love, "Hon Samuel Freedman: Reverence for Scholarship, Zeal for Truth & Justice", The Jewish Post (21 August 1986) 10-11. The same article also appeared in The Winnipeg Free Press [nd], Winnipeg, Faculty of Law Archives.

David Matas, interview with Sam Freedman, transcript [nd].

Mike Maunder, "New Chief Justice Responsive to Winds of Change", Tribune Focus (27 March 1971).

Interview of Sam Freedman by D'Arcy McCaffrey, in (1970-72) 38:1 Manitoba Bar News 180.

"600 Honor New Justice Freedman: Chief Justice Williams Prophesies Worthiness Of New Judge", The Winnipeg Free Press (27 August 1952) 18.